

COST ACTION FA1204

Rootstock-scion and rhizosphere signaling

18 & 19 April 2016, Bleiswijk, The Netherlands

GENERAL INFORMATION

We are looking forward welcoming you in April at the Steering Committee MC meeting of the COST action FA1204 "Vegetable Grafting" in The Netherlands. The Netherlands have a strong and competitive horticulture sector, with regional clusters of glasshouse horticulture companies, of which the 'Greenports' of Westland – Oostland (near The Hague), Aalsmeer (near Amsterdam) and Venlo (near the German Ruhr Area) are the most important ones. The sector makes a strong contribution to the export position of the Netherlands. Since the 1990s, stimulated by changing societal expectations, growers and surrounding actors engaged in improving the sustainability of the glasshouse horticulture sector, especially focusing on reducing energy usage, greenhouse gas emissions, water usage and land use. The glasshouse horticulture sector in the Netherlands is often perpetrated as a successful example of a sustainability transition and is therefore interesting to derive lessons for sustainable regional economic development.

We will meet at Wageningen UR Greenhouse Horticulture, which is located in Bleiswijk. This village is part of 'Greenport' Westland - Oostland, traditionally the area where glasshouse horticulture in The Netherlands is concentrated. Since the Westland - Oostland region is an industrial area, we will host you in a hotel in the city of Gouda. Gouda is an imposing, historic town with canals. In the town centre one can see much of Gouda's rich history and versatile culture – from historic buildings to museums and galleries with modern art (www.welkomingouda.nl/en). Gouda is world famous for its cheese. Gouda cheese is among the best-known and most consumed cheese in the world. It is sold in almost every remote corner of the planet. The cheese takes its name from the fact that, for centuries, it was traded in the town of Gouda. From Gouda central station one can easily travel by train to other Dutch cities like Amsterdam (55'), The Hague (25'), Delft (40') or Rotterdam (20').
